According to the plan of redistricting the state, as adopted by the redistricting commission, Westerly will be divided into two voting districts and under the representation according to population idea will be entitled to two representatives in the general assembly instead of one as at present, in addition to the senator allowed from each town. There will be a special session of the general assembly next month to act upon the redistricting constitutional changes which is made possible at that time by the census department completing the returns from Rhode Island before any other state for that purpose.

But under the old laws there was but one voting district and the representatives voting district and the representatives could have been chosen from the same house in the same street without going outside of the election law. This, of course, will of necessity change the present mode of running the election machinery on election day and require twice the number of election officials as at the present time, and be so amended that the actual presence of the town clerk at the polling place will not be required as at present from the opening and until the last vote is counted as he could not last vote is counted, as he could not well be at both polling places at the Committeeman Wheeler Secures Teachers.

While the parishioners of St. Michael's church are pleased at the promotion of their pastor. Rev. James W. Cunningham, to the pastorate of St. Thomas' church, Waterbury, they also regret that he is to sever his connection with the parish, for which he has done such effective work during the two years and four months of his pactorate. Father Curmingham did not seek the promotion, for he loved his people, and their relationship was of the pleasantest nature.

The appointment to St. Thomas' church, to succeed Rev. Timothy Crowley, who goes to St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, New London, came as a surprise to him from Rt. Rev. Committee man Frank R. Wheeler Committee man Frank R.
